

"BUTTERFLY" CARD

Designed by Corrine Mihlek-Brzys

Try this pretty yet simple spotlighting technique to freshen up a detailed stamp and produce a brand new, modern look!

Materials:

#90422 Four Butterflies stamp

#50066 Canva-Paper Tablet

You'll Also Need:

Cardstock (blue, peach, green, and pink are used here)

Circle Punches in varying sizes

Black ink

Dimensional Foam adhesive

Instructions:

1. Stamp butterflies in black ink on Canva-Paper. Trim to 4 1/2" x 5 1/2."

2. Using circle punches in various sizes, punch four holes through the stamped image—one circle per butterfly. (Play with positioning! By punching different parts of each butterfly image, you'll create greater visual interest than if you punch each butterfly's main body, for example.) Set aside.

3. Stamp butterflies one time each on pink, green, peach, and blue cardstock. Figure out where you want each color to show through (ours shows pink, green, blue, and peach, from top to bottom) and match the colored pieces with the corresponding image on the punched canva-paper, like a puzzle.

4. Once properly matched up to complete each image, trim each colored section slightly larger than the hole it fits under and adhere. Set aside.

5. To create a card front, trim a piece of blue cardstock to 5" x 6 3/4".

6. Trim a piece of peach cardstock to 4 1/4" x 6" and adhere it to the blue, flush to the right side and leaving an even margin along the top and bottom.

7. Create a card body by folding a 5 1/2" x 9" piece of white cardstock in half.

8. Adhere the blue and peach card front to the card body.

9. Using dimensional foam adhesive, attach the spotlight butterfly panel to the center of the card front.
