Crafting Your World has a very powerful meaning for this new exciting catalog. As you review our collections for 2005, you will find many additions to the Janlynn family of products. The Sanook Paper Company and Stamps Happen are two major lines that we acquired recently. The entire Janlynn team is very excited to have these strong lines to offer you in addition to our traditional needle art range.

Over the past 26 years, Janlynn has thrived as a family owned business. This is a direct result of our strong brands. Their strength stems from not only the quality of design and tremendous value we offer, but also from your loyalty, which is greatly appreciated.

On a personal level, I sincerely appreciate all the efforts and hard work that has gone into these new products—so many loyal Janlynn staff were involved here to make this wonderful new range a reality. We have one simple goal in mind when producing each and every product—to allow you to spend your precious leisure time on exciting products. We wish you not only to cherish the time you have Crafting Your World, but also to cherish your heirlooms with your family and friends for years to come.

I hope you will check our websites often at www.janlynn.com, www.sanookpaper.com, and www.stampshappen.com for all our latest updates. Thank you so much for your continued support to our family owned business. It means a great deal to all of us at Janlynn.

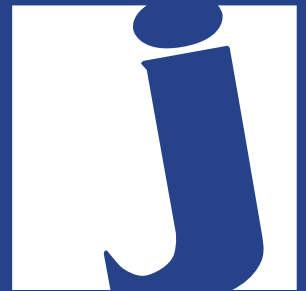

Very truly yours,

John F. Kozub

What is acid FREE?

If the terms “archival”, “acid-free”, and “lignin free” confuse you, you are not alone. To help you better understand how to protect your scrapbook treasures look no further.

Q: What exactly does “acid-free” mean?

A: If a material has a pH value of 7 to 8.5, it is considered acid-free.

Q: How can acid harm my photos and mementos?

A: If an acidic product comes in contact with photos, paper or other mementos, the acid can migrate, causing deterioration and discoloration over time.

Q: What is pH?

A: The pH of a product is a measure of its acidity or alkalinity. On a scale of 0 to 14, 7 is considered neutral. Below 7 indicates acidity. A lower number indicates an INCREASE in the level of acid. Above 7 indicates alkalinity, with the level of alkaline increasing as the number increases.

Q: What is lignin and why is it harmful?

A: Lignin is a natural bonding substance that is found in wood fibers of untreated papers. Over time, lignin breaks down into acids and peroxides that can cause deterioration of the paper, adversely affecting photos and mementos that come in contact with it.

Buffering is the process of adding alkaline agents during the paper making process to counteract the effect of acidic contamination of the paper.

Now you are probably asking “How can I be sure that the supplies I use are safe?”

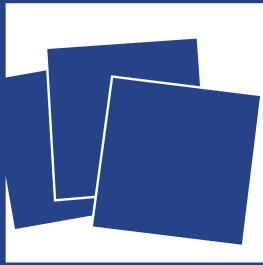

The following checklist may help.

- ☑ Make sure all products that come in direct contact with your photos and mementos (such as the paper, protectors, storage and organizers) are acid-free, lignin-free and buffered.
- ☑ Always protect your finished pages within page protectors to prevent the migration of acid from the environment.
- ☑ Store your album in a cool, dry place away from harsh light such as direct sunlight.
- ☑ Use acid-free adhesives and pens.

Scrapbooking Hints & Techniques

- Fibers are Yarns: To glue fibers in free-form design (curves, curly-ques, etc), use an acid-free, fine-tip glue pen. Draw onto paper where you want the fibers to go. Allow glue to become tacky, then press fiber onto glue.
- To apply fibers in straight lines: Begin on back side of page, run across the surface and then wrap to the back. Adhere ends with acid-free tape.
- To hold fibers sporadically in place: Use tiny glue dots. These can be pulled and rolled to form small line. Glue dots can also be cut for smaller areas. To quickly iron non-fuzzy ribbons and threads, use a curling iron. Place trim against rod...and quickly pull trim across rod.
- To score paper for perfect fold: Using a straight edge and a stylus (or dead ball-point pen), draw line on back side of paper. The more pressure, the sharper the crease.
- Wax paper: Makes a super lubricant for punches. Just punch a few sheets and see the difference.
- Stickers: Peel diagonally, beginning with the largest part of the design first. Keep sticker flat...and fold back the release paper.
- To Emboss vellum: Draw pattern on wrong-side of vellum
- Sticky scissors: Try alcohol wipes found in drug stores for a quick, portable solution.
- Cutting with a craft blade (Xacto blade): Pull knife towards yourself, shift paper often so that you are always pulling the knife towards yourself.
- Cutting Tip: When cutting around intricate shapes, turn the paper, not the scissor.
- Tearing handmade papers: To achieve a fairly straight edge on mulberry and other hand-made papers: Place a ruler 1/4" away from your tear line. Using a small artist paint brush, paint water onto the line. Allow paper to sit for a minute...then tear.

Glue Recommendations

- For large flat surfaces: Use acid-free glue sticks or transfer dot sheets
- For small embellishments and threads: Tiny Glue dots or fine glue pens
- For small die cuts: Use acid-free small transfer dot sheets
- For buttons or raised objects: Glue dots (these can be trimmed or stretched to fit the item)

Project: Feathered Pen

Requirements:

- Variety of Primary Rayon Floss Colors
- A Pen (Bic Round Stic seems to work the best)
- Tacky Glue
- Feathers
- Tape • Beads

Instructions:

Choose a bunch of feathers and using your tape, attach them to the top of your pen. Make sure that the ends of the feathers are neatly and smoothly covered with tape. Next, start at the top of the pen, dab a bit of glue onto the end of your first floss color, hold firmly to the pen until it adheres, and begin wrapping. After a few rounds you might want to string a bead or two onto the floss. Space them out and wrap. To change colors, fold the new color over the in use color, hold down and wrap for two or three rounds. At this point, use the new color to wrap over the end of the first color. Continue in this way, adding beads to the first inch or so of the pen...where one tends to hold it. To finish, simply add a dab of glue to the bottom of the pen, and firmly hold the end of the final color to the glue until it sets. Let dry completely and WOW, a fancy pen that every little girl will love!

BEFORE YOU BEGIN...

Always wash your hands before you begin stitching. Natural oils from your hands can soil the fabric.

THE FABRIC...

Aida fabric or Evenweave fabric is typically used for counted cross stitch.

Aida is woven into groups that form blocks. The stitches are sewn by inserting the needle into the corner holes between the blocks. Each cross stitch is sewn over one fabric block, creating X's.

Evenweave fabric is composed of single, rounded threads that have been evenly woven horizontally and vertically. A cross stitch on evenweave fabric covers two threads vertically and two threads horizontally. To achieve greater detailing, the cross stitches may be worked over one thread of the fabric. To correctly place your design on the fabric, you will need to find the fabric's center. Fold your fabric in half from top to bottom. Then fold from side to side. Pinch the folds with your fingers to crease. Open the fabric. The center of the fabric is where the two creases meet. Mark the center with a pin.

THE FLOSS...

Each strand of embroidery floss is composed of six individual threads twisted together. "Tickle" the end of the strand of floss and slowly withdraw the number of individual threads needed to stitch the design. To reduce tangles and knots, cut the floss into 18" lengths.

Knots are not used in cross stitch. To start the first strand, hold the end of the floss behind the fabric until it is secured by the first few stitches. To end a strand or begin a new one, weave the end of the floss through the stitches on the reverse side of your fabric.

Helpful Hints

Before you sit down to stitch, organize your floss, fabric, hoop, needles, graph and scissors.

Stitch in the best possible daylight. Daylight simulation bulbs for evening stitching are also available.

Be sure all stitches cross in the same direction as shown in the stitch guides.

Count your stitches often. Errors should be carefully removed.

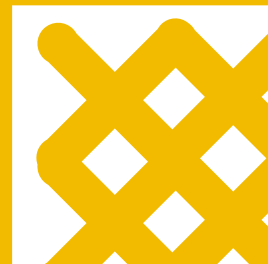

If your floss becomes twisted, let the needle hang down and allow the floss to resume its natural twist.

When you are finished for the day, do not leave your needle in the fabric.

Dear Aunt Jan,

I color copy my finished work, before I take it to the framer. This way I have a record of the piece I did and I can make notes on the back of any color changes I made.

Once my piece is back from the framer and under glass, I take a series of pictures of the piece. I don't stand directly in front of it because the glass will catch the glare of the flash. I stand slightly to the left and then to the right so that the flash is not directly perpendicular to the piece.

Thanks again,
Tracy

Dear Aunt Jan,

I do a lot of embroidery and stamped cross stitch and have an abundance of embroidery threads. The easiest way I have found to keep the colors separate and keep track of them is to use zip lock snack bags. I put a label on the color number and then use small index file cards and label them with the same number. I can then file them in a storage drawer and I also keep a list in my computer of the number and color for easy reference. If I buy something with a color chart I can check by number to see if I have that color and how much I have.

Thanks,
Vickie McGee

Dear Aunt Jan,

I always photocopy the leaflet I am using; that way I can carry it with me wherever I go and still have the original just in case something happens to the copy. After I am finished with my project, the copy is thrown away (it usually ends up all torn up and marked with hi-liter).

Thanks,
Marva Nunez

The History of Rubber Stamps

Prior to the rubber stamp, there were metal printing stamps, usually made of brass. These preceded the rubber version by six to eight years. We remember them in the form of seals, used with wax to ensure the privacy of documents. The seals themselves were generally very elaborate. The word 'stamp' is used to refer to a marking device.

There is some confusion surrounding the production of the first rubberstamp. In America, Charles Goodyear discovered the process by which rubber is cured in 1844, while he was experimenting in his kitchen. He dropped a mixture of rubber and sulphur on to a hot stove and found that it was still flexible the next day. The process was dubbed vulcanisation after Vulcan, the Roman god of fire.

The birth of the rubber stamp was closely entwined with early dentistry. Vulcanised rubber, set in plaster moulds, was used to make cost-effective denture bases. Dentists had their own round vulcanisers, called 'dental pots', which would be used, eventually, to manufacture the first rubber stamps.

In 1866 James C. Woodruff started experimenting with a vulcaniser, trying to make some letter moulds. He asked his uncle, who was a dentist, for help and advice and after additional experiments with the 'dental pot', the first quality rubber stamps were created. Some of the rubber stamp companies formed in 1880 are still in business today.

The rubber stamps we are familiar with are those found in banks and offices, such as the mechanical date stamp, often found in Post Offices.

The first picture stamps came in the form of educational stamps. German artist Kurt Schwatting, as early as 1919, used artistic stamps in his collages. The home of 'art stamps', as they are often called, is California, where they have been popular for over sixteen years, and there are specialist shops just selling art stamps. With the increase in workshops and demonstrations over the last few years, the craft has grown tremendously.

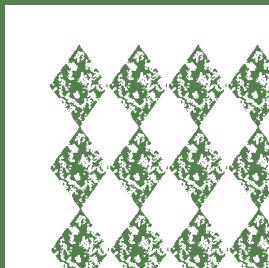

Some truly wonderful effects are achievable with art stamps, both by those who are creative and those who are not.

Directions:

1. Fold a 10 x 7 piece of white cardstock in half to create a 5 x 7 card body. Set aside.

4. Punch three circles from acid green cardstock and adhere to left side of cardfront.
